ABSTRACT

The 1966-67 faculty salary study charts and tables based on salary data reported by 64 schools are presented. Data are reported separately for the major clinical departments, and in combined form for the basic science departments. Separate salary distributions are also provided for "strict" full-time salaries and "geographic" full-time salaries in the clinical departments. The charts plot the cumulative percentage of faculty salaries on an ascending scale. Each chart is accompanied by a table providing the frequency distribution of the salaries and the average and median salaries for faculty ranks reported. (Author/LBH)

Attached are the 1966-67 Faculty Salary Study Charts and Tables based on salary data reported by 64 schools. As in past years, data is reported separately for the major Clinical Departments, and in combined form for the Basic Science Departments. Separate salary distributions are also provided for "strict" full time salaries ("S" series) and "geographic" full time salaries ("G" series) in the Clinical Departments.

The charts plot the cumulative percentage of faculty salaries on an ascending scale. Each chart is accompanied by a table providing the frequency distribution of the salaries and the average and median salaries for faculty ranks reported.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes that this is essential for ensuring transparency and accountability in the organization's operations.

2. The second part of the document outlines the various methods and tools used to collect and analyze data. It highlights the need for a systematic approach to data collection and the importance of using reliable sources of information.

3. The third part of the document describes the process of identifying and addressing potential risks and challenges. It stresses the importance of proactive risk management and the need to develop effective strategies to mitigate potential threats.

4. The fourth part of the document discusses the role of communication and collaboration in achieving the organization's goals. It emphasizes the importance of clear communication and the need for all team members to work together effectively.

5. The fifth part of the document provides a summary of the key findings and conclusions of the study. It reiterates the importance of maintaining accurate records and the need for a systematic approach to data collection and analysis.
